COUNCIL ON COURT PROCEDURES

Minutes of Meeting of November 7, 1987

Oregon State Bar Offices, Meeting Room No. 2

Lake Oswego, Oregon

Present:

John H. Buttler
Raymond J. Conboy
Lafayette G. Harter
Robert E. Jones
Henry Kantor
Ronald Marceau
Jack L. Mattison
Robert B. McConville
James E. Redman
R. William Riggs
Martha Rodman
J. Michael Starr
Elizabeth Yeats

(Also present was Douglas A. Haldane, Executive Director)

The meeting of the Council on Court Procedures was convened at 9:10 a.m. by John H. Buttler. The first order of business was to elect a new Chairman for the Council following the expiration of the term of Joe Bailey, the immediate past Chairman.

Mike Starr nominated Ray Conboy as Chairman. The nomination was seconded by Mr. Riggs. Mr. Conboy was elected without opposition.

Mr. Starr nominated Mr. Marceau as Vice-Chairman of the Council. The nomination was seconded by Mr. Conboy. Mr. Marceau was elected Vice-Chairman without opposition.

Mr. Starr then nominated Mr. Harter as Treasurer. Ms. Rodman seconded that nomination, and Mr. Harter was elected Treasurer.

Mr. Haldane reported to the Council regarding action taken by the 1987 Legislative Assembly concerning Council amendments. He pointed out that all amendments and changes made to the Oregon Rules of Civil Procedure by the Council had survived the legislative session, with the exception of amendments to ORCP 17 and ORCP 39. The Council's proposals for changes to those two rules were amended by the legislature, but only slightly. The intent of the Council in adopting those rule changes appears to have been carried out by the legislature.

Mr. Haldane then pointed out that there were continuing concerns regarding ORCP 69 and the lack of any requirement that notice be given prior to taking an order of default. Mr. Haldane reviewed the Council's actions on ORCP 69 during the last biennium. It was suggested that, given the continuing concern among members of the Bar regarding the lack of any notice requirement prior to taking an order of default, the Council should take another look at the issue.

Mr. Conboy appointed Judge McConville and Mr. Starr as a subcommittee to look into the problems posed by the current Rule 69.

Mr. Haldane then explained the changes to the Oregon Rules of Civil Procedure which were made by the 1987 Legislature.

Rule 18 was amended as a part of the "tort reform" legislation to provide that the amount of non-economic damages being sought in a civil action will not be stated specifically in the complaint, nor will the amount of damages be contained in the prayer. It was mentioned that there may be some jurisdictional problems with the rule as amended in that, without stating the amount of damages specifically, there might not be an adequate pleading to establish jurisdiction in the circuit court now that the district court has exclusive jurisdiction in certain civil actions.

It was pointed out that Chapter 714 of Oregon Laws 1987 provides for a transfer of cases from district court to circuit court and from circuit court to district court when these jurisdictional problems are raised by motion. There remains some concern, particularly regarding waiver of jurisdictional problems contained in Chapter 714, Oregon Laws, 1987, that the jurisdictional problem remains. Mr. Haldane was asked to look into this matter further and give a report back to the Council.

The legislature also amended ORCP 68 A. to provide, as "costs" which may be recovered in an action, costs incurred in recordation of any documents where recordation is required to give notice of the creation, modification, or termination of an interest in real property. There was no further discussion regarding ORCP 68 A.

ORCP 70 was also amended by the legislature to provide that a summary of judgment be provided with each judgment for the payment of money. Some concerns were expressed regarding the drafting of the changes to ORCP 70, as well as some confusion as to the actual requirements. It was suggested that the Chief Justice would be addressing some of these problems by rule. It is a matter that will be of continuing concern to the Council as experience under the new ORCP is gained.

ORCP 83 E., 84 A., and 84 C. were all amended by the legislature to provide for the recording in the County Clerk Lien Record of orders providing for provisional process when real Record of orders providing for provisional process when real property is involved.

ORCP 84 D. was amended to provide specifically that personal property is attachable by writ of garnishment.

Mr. Haldane brought to the Council's attention the letter of Kevin Staples of June 29, 1987, suggesting that there should no longer be any requirement that summons be issued by a "resident" attorney, especially since Oregon no longer requires that an attorney be a resident in order to practice law in the state of Oregon. The Council adopted an amendment to ORCP 7 B., striking the word "resident."

The Council was made aware of Judge Ashmanskas's letter of June 16, 1987 regarding the use of alternate jurors. Judge Riggs suggested that Judge Ashmanskas be given an opportunity to discuss this suggestion directly with the Council. Judge Riggs was asked to contact Judge Ashmanskas and invite him to attend a Council meeting for that purpose. Judge Riggs agreed to report back to the Council at its next meeting.

The meeting was adjourned at 11:15 a.m.

Respectfully submitted,

RE: MEETING ON SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1987

We are still awaiting announcement of the appointments to the Council by the Circuit Judges Association and the District Judges Association. Appointments by the Oregon State Bar have been made, and it is our understanding that the judges will be appointed sometime in October. For that reason, I am scheduling a meeting of the Council for:

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1987, 9:00 A.M.

Place: Meeting Room No. 2
Oregon State Bar Offices
5200 SW Meadow Road
Lake Oswego, Oregon

The first order of business at that meeting will be to elect a Chairman, Vice-Chairman, and Treasurer to serve as Council officers during the biennium.

The Council will wish to welcome its new members: Elizabeth Yeats, Henry Kantor, Larry Thorp, Judith Miller, and The Hon. Linda Bergman. William Schroeder and Michael Starr have been reappointed.

Although it is still a bit confusing, I will have a report on legislative action regarding the ORCP at the November 7 meeting and will be asking the Council to set its agenda for the biennium.

Enclosed is correspondence I have received relating to various problems that people see in the ORCP. You may wish to review their suggestions prior to the November 7 meeting.

Also enclosed are changes to the ORCP which were made by the 1987 Legislature. The Council may wish to review these amendments, with a particular eye toward the amendments to ORCP 70 A.

It is imperative that we have a quorum at the November 7, 1987 meeting if the Council is to begin its work for the biennium. The Council will need to elect a new Chair, Vice-Chair, and Treasurer.

Dear Doug:

Enclosed is a copy of a memo I recently received from Judge Clifford B. Olsen of our circuit bench here in Multnomah County. I have discussed the matter with Judge Olsen and suggested that he write to me regarding his concern about Rule 59 c(6).

I agree with Judge Olsen's observations that Rule 59 c(6) needs to be amended to provide for release of juries during the noon hour. I suspect that many judges do this anyway, but a strict reading of the rule seems to permit release of the jury only for evenings during deliberation and not for noon hours. It seems sensible to take the position that if juries can be released to go home in the evening to be with their families during deliberation, there should be nothing to prevent judges from releasing them during the noon hour as well. It would also be a significant savings in meal costs for the state.

I would appreciate it if you would include this issue on our agenda.

Sincerely,

R. William Riggs

Subject: ORCP 59 c(6)

As you know we are authorized under the rules to "allow the jury to separate for the evening...". We are not authorized to allow the jury to separate for lunch.

I propose Rule 59 c(6) be amended to read:

> "the court in its discretion may allow the jury to separate for the noon hour and for the evening during its deliberation when the court etc. etc."

By this simple amendment we can avoid ordering many jury meals and thereby affect substantial savings.

Dear Mr. Haldane:

I suggest that the Council consider an amendment to ORCP 22C. That rule presently requires a defendant to file a third party action within 90 days after service of the plaintiff's summons and complaint on the defendant unless the defendant can thereafter obtain leave of court and consent of those parties who have appeared in the litigation.

I propose that the rule be amended to create an exception to the 90 day limitation when the defendant has in good faith within that time period filed a potentially dispositive motion addressed to the plaintiff's complaint. Under the present rule, it is possible that the defendant may file a motion which will result in the dismissal with prejudice of the plaintiff's complaint; e.g., a claim that the case is barred by the statute of limitations or that a claim for relief has not been stated. If access to the court or the fact that a court takes the motion under advisement precludes decision on that motion within the 90 day period, the defendant must file his third party complaint unless he is willing to risk being able to obtain leave of court and consent of his adversaries to a later filing. The potential result is that a third party will suffer the trauma of being served with a summons and complaint and perhaps even incurring attorney's fees to defend a third party complaint which may become moot by the court's decision on the defendant's motion. The problems caused the third party defendant in such a situation seem to me to be a greater evil than the relatively brief delay which would be caused by permitting the third party complaint to be brought within a determined number of days after the dispositive motion is decided.

I became aware of the problem presented by the present rule in defending a case under the Landlord and Tenant Act. The tenant sued my client, the landlord, for an alleged defective condition of the house which he had rented to the plaintiff's sister. I moved to dismiss the plaintiff's claim, which was premised in strict liability, for failure to state a claim for relief. The court took the matter under advisement, so that I was compelled to file a third party complaint against the tenant before the motion was decided. In this case, the court did not grant the motion to dismiss, but if it had, the third party defendant would have needlessly incurred expense in preparation to defend a claim which may have no longer existed. Certainly there are many more examples which illustrate the problem presented by the present rule.

Sincerely,

Larry Dawson (sic)

Dear Professor Haldane:

I read, with interest, your article on Proposed Amendments to the ORCP in the most recent issue of the Oregon Litigation Journal.

I wholeheartedly agree with your comments regarding ORCP 69 and a ten day notice of intent to take a default order. Both myself and Mr. Brookshire of this office have, on numerous occasions, discussed the somewhat illogical approach of the Denkers case which does not require a ten day notice before order, but only before judgment by default, which in some cases is a foregone conclusion after the entry of the order of default.

While I agree that the rule should be changed to provide for ten day notice prior to a default order, I am concerned that the Council would limit the additional requirement of the ten day notice for judgment by default to cases in which it is necessary to receive evidence prior to the entry of judgment; the prima facie situation.

One of the reasons I feel that the ten day notice before judgment by default should apply to all cases is the recent Supreme Court opinion in Rajneesh Foundation International v. McGreer, 303 Or 139 ____ P2d ____ (1987). In that case, the court determined that even after an order of default has been entered, a party can file a motion against the complaint contending that it fails to state a valid claim for relief. However, in footnote 3, page 144, the court indicated that its holding that a Rule 21A(8) Motion would be proper after a party has been defaulted did not mean that a default judgment is subject to collateral attack on the ground that the pleadings were insufficient to support it. If the defaulted party, in a non-prima facie case, is not given notice at the time after which judgment may be entered, he may lose a valuable opportunity to challenge the sufficiency of the complaint, and would be unable to collaterally attack the judgment entered.

Thank you for allowing me the opportunity to comment, and I appreciate your work on the ORCP.

Sincerely,

Re: ORCP 57F - Alternate Jurors

Dear Doug:

ORCP 57F provides for the replacement of regular jurors by alternate jurors "prior to the time the jury retired to consider its verdict." The rule also provides that an alternate juror who does not replace a regular juror shall be discharged "as the jury retires to consider its verdict." In brief, alternate jurors cannot replace regular jurors after the jury retires to deliberate its verdict.

In light of the recent fraud trial of the former Secretary of Labor, Raymond J. Donovan, may I suggest that the Council consider a revision of ORCP 57F to allow the use of alternate jurors after deliberations have begun, with whatever limitations the Council believes appropriate.

As you may recall from the press reports, Mr. Donovan and seven other defendants, a three-man prosecution team, nine defense counsel, 12 regular jurors and three alternate jurors spent more than eight months in court hearing from some 40 witnesses and viewing 900 exhibits. After about five hours of deliberation, one of the regular jurors was disqualified by the trial judge after locking herself in a bathroom, chanting "The Lord is my Shepherd" over and over, and after a psychiatrist examined her and declared her "grossly unfit" to continue as a juror. Over the objections of the defendants, the trial judge (citing the ambiguities of New York law) replaced the distraught regular juror with one of the three alternate jurors. The jury then proceeded to acquit the defendants after another five hours of deliberation.

If this trial had been held in Oregon (with the unambiguous language of ORCP 57F) and the parties did not agree to allow 11 jurors to deliberate and reach a verdict, I believe the trial judge would have to declare a mistrial under these circumstances.

Thank you for your consideration of this request.

Sincerely,

DONALD C. ASHMANSKAS

Dear Mr. Haldene:

This letter is in response to our phone conversation of June 25, 1987. Oregon Civil Rule 7(b) states that "a summons is issued when subscribed by plaintiff or a resident attorney of this state." To the extent that "resident" means an attorney either living in or working in the state of Oregon, I would suggest that it needs to be changed based on the rules for admission to practice, specifically Rule 1.10(1).

Thank you for any assistance you can give me in this matter.

RE: Procedural Problem Created by Prohibition Against Pleading Amount of Noneconomic Damages in Tort Reform Bill; SB 323, 1987 Or Laws Ch. 774

The attached memorandum explains a problem concerning the recently passed tort reform legislation. I lean toward following Mr. Swank's recommendations, but thought you should have a chance to comment. Unless someone makes a better suggestion and sends it to me before the 15th of September, I will issue an order directing the trial courts to follow the recommendations. MEMORANDUM

PROBLEM

Judge Robert Paul Jones sent a memo to Chief Justice Peterson pointing out procedural problems created by the tort reform bill. The problem is created because section 12a, chapter 774, 1987 Oregon Laws (1987 SB 323, copy attached) will take effect on September 27, 1987, and will prohibit a pleading from specifying the amount of "noneconomic" damages sought in a suit. Because the entire amount of damages sought will not be shown in the pleadings, Judge Jones feels that the courts will encounter the following procedural problems:

1. How to tell whether district court or circuit court has jurisdiction over the suit.

2. How to tell whether the amount sought in a circuit court case is within the $25,000 limit that would subject the case to mandatory arbitration under ORS 33.360 (as amended by chapter 116, Oregon Laws 1987).

In his July 9, 1987 memo, Judge Jones suggested that a possible solution to the problem might be to require the plaintiff's attorney to file a statement, contemporaneously with the filing of the complaint, that the amount of noneconomic damages sought exceeds certain jurisdictional levels. In a July 16, 1987 letter to Chief Justice Peterson, Presiding Judge Frank Bearden suggests solving the problem by providing a certification form at the civil filing window that would be required by court rule and would certify that the case is within the circuit or district court jurisdictional limit and is inside or outside the mandatory arbitration limit.

Bill Linden requested that I review the problem and make recommendations about how to address it. After discussing the problem with both you and Mr. Linden, my review and recommendations are as follows:

DISCUSSION

The question of whether a case is within the mandatory arbitration amount does not arise with cases in district court. Chapter 125, Oregon Laws 1987 (1987 HB 2092), amended ORS 33.360 to make the mandatory arbitration limits for district court $10,000. The bill takes effect on September 27, 1987, (the same day as the "tort reform" bill) and will make the arbitration limits for district court the same as the jurisdictional limit under ORS 46.060; therefore, all district court cases will be subject to mandatory arbitration in those district courts with a mandatory arbitration program unless removed from arbitration by a presiding judge under ORS 33.360(2).

The next problem, whether a case is within the jurisdiction of circuit or district court, is solved by chapter 714, Oregon Laws 1987 (1987 HB 2293, copy attached). This bill (which also takes effect September 27, 1987) establishes a procedure for the transfer of cases between circuit and district court when the cases are not within the respective jurisdictional limits. The bill provides that parties are required (see sections 2 and 4, chapter 714, Oregon Laws 1987) to file a motion to transfer the case to the other court when they know that the case is not within the jurisdiction of the court where the case was filed. If the parties do not file a motion, the court is required to transfer the case on its own motion if it is aware that a claim is outside the jurisdiction (see sections 2 and 4, chapter 714, Oregon Laws 1987).

By using the procedure in HB 2293 to address the problems raised by SB 323, the responsibility to resolve the issue of jurisdictional amounts rests on the parties with the greatest interest and with the information. The parties have the information about amounts sought that are not on the face of the complaint (section 12a of SB 323 provides a procedure for an adverse party to request and receive the amount of damages sought). The solution worked out by the legislature has the advantage of making the argument over jurisdictional amounts part of the motion practice.

The problem of arbitration in circuit court seems to be much the same as the transfer problem the legislature addressed in HB 2293. If noneconomic damages are sought, the court will not know, from the face of the pleading, whether the case is subject to mandatory arbitration. The solutions proposed by Judges Jones and Bearden both require additional paperwork in every case. This would increase the workload of attorneys and of the court clerks and, possibly, increase overall costs. One of the suggestions would require the courts to prepare an additional form. I do not believe that the additional work is necessary. I think that the problem can be addressed similarly to the way the legislature addressed the transfer problem in HB 2293.

RECOMMENDATIONS

I recommend that the questions of jurisdictional amount and of qualification for arbitration be resolved from the face of the claim, counterclaim, crossclaim, or third party claim, even though this will not include amounts that might be claimed for noneconomic damages.

On the question of district/circuit court jurisdiction, this would mean that a case filed in district court or circuit court would remain there unless the parties or the court transfers the case under the new procedures in 1987 HB 2293. It is the responsibility of the parties to file motions to transfer the case under sections 2 or 4 of HB 2293 when the case is not within the jurisdictional amount. If they do not, the court will do so on its own motion if it is aware that the case is outside its jurisdiction.

As for the question of mandatory arbitration in circuit courts in a circuit court with a mandatory arbitration program, any case where the claim for relief did not seek more than $25,000 on its face (without considering noneconomic damages) would be assigned to mandatory arbitration unless one of the following occurs:

a. The party, at the time of filing the pleading (including a claim, counterclaim, crossclaim or third party claim), gives the court and the other side notice that an amount will be sought that removes the case from mandatory arbitration. This could be accomplished without specifying the amount that will be sought as noneconomic damages simply by placing the words "NOT SUBJECT TO MANDATORY ARBITRATION" in the document title (a draft UTCR that would make this change is attached).

b. Any party files a notice, prior to referral to arbitration, that the case is not subject to arbitration. The notice should state why.

c. The court orders the case removed from mandatory arbitration (for "good cause shown," ORS 33.360(2)).

The use of pleadings and motion practice in the manner proposed by these recommendations appears consistent with the legislative intent in the "tort reform" bill to keep amounts of noneconomic damages out of the pleadings. The proposed solutions also prevent substantial additional workloads for attorneys and court clerks by avoiding additional filings in many cases.

I suggest that the Chief Justice adopt a rule or issue an order under ORS 1.002 establishing the practices recommended in this memo until the matter can be further reviewed either as part of the Uniform Trial Court Rule process or as part of the Oregon Rules of Civil Procedure process.

The legislation takes effect on September 27, 1987. It is now late in August. Because of the timing in relation to the UTCR and ORCP cycle, neither ORCP nor UTCR changes can be made before the legislation takes effect. The printing and distribution of the UTCR for this year has already taken place. The local rules that might otherwise address this question are required to be submitted for review on September 1, 1987, and are probably already too far along to address the problem. (I have, however, prepared a draft UTCR in case the Chief Justice chooses this approach.)

Whatever approach the Chief Justice chooses, it should continue in effect until superseded by either a UTCR or ORCP developed in the normal course of affairs. This problem does, however, need an immediate solution that will be in place when the involved legislation takes effect. It is a problem that appears to be best addressed in a uniform, statewide manner.

Kingsley Click tells me that the UTCR Committee has expressed an interest in spending part of the next year dealing with some issues relating to arbitration. It might be appropriate for them to more fully consider these issues as part of their broader consideration of arbitration.

I know that my recommendations seem simple. If you think of some wrinkle I have missed or problem I haven't addressed, let me know.

PROPOSED UNIFORM TRIAL COURT RULE OR COURT ORDER

The Uniform Trial Court Rules are amended by adding the following paragraph to subsection (11) of Rule 2.010:

"(c) In the title of any pleading in circuit court where the amount of claim would subject the case to mandatory arbitration under ORS 33.360, the party preparing the pleading shall include the words "CLAIM NOT SUBJECT TO MANDATORY ARBITRATION" if the party knows that an amount will be sought that exceeds the mandatory arbitration limit under ORS 33.360 but that the amount sought will not be shown in the pleadings because of ORCP 18B. This language will be sufficient to provide the court and other parties with notice that an amount will be sought that is in excess of the mandatory arbitration limit. Signature of the pleadings will constitute verification of such notice under ORCP 17."

BAS:dc/91860

SECTION 12a. ORCP 18 is amended to read:

RULE 18

CLAIMS FOR RELIEF

Claims for relief. A. A pleading which asserts a claim for relief, whether an original claim, counterclaim, cross-claim, or third party claim, shall contain:

A.(1) A plain and concise statement of the ultimate facts constituting a claim for relief without unnecessary repetition.

[B.] A.(2) A demand of the relief which the party claims; if recovery of money or damages is demanded, the amount thereof shall be stated, except as provided in section B. of this rule; relief in the alternative or of several different types may be demanded.

B.(1) The amount sought in a civil action for noneconomic damages, as defined in section 6 of this Act, shall not be pleaded in a complaint, counterclaim, cross-claim or third-party claim.

B.(2) The prayer in such actions shall contain only a demand for the payment of damages without specifying the amount.

B.(3) The party making the claim may supply to any adverse party a statement of the amount claimed for such damages, and shall do so within 10 days of a request for such statement. The request and the statement shall not be made a part of the trial court file.

weekly wage nor less than the amount of 90 percent of wages a week or the amount of $50 a week, whichever amount is lesser. Notwithstanding the limitation imposed by this subsection, an injured worker who is not otherwise eligible to receive an increase in benefits for the fiscal year in which compensation is paid shall have the benefits increased each fiscal year by the percentage which the applicable average weekly wage has increased since the previous fiscal year.

(2)(a) For the purpose of this section, the weekly wage of workers shall be ascertained by multiplying the daily wage the worker was receiving [at the time of injury]:

[(a)] (A) By 3, if the worker was regularly employed not more than three days a week.

[(b)] (B) By 4, if the worker was regularly employed four days a week.

[(c)] (C) By 5, if the worker was regularly employed five days a week.

[(d)] (D) By 6, if the worker was regularly employed six days a week.

[(e)] (E) By 7, if the worker was regularly employed seven days a week.

(b) For the purpose of this section:

(A) The benefits of a worker who incurs an injury shall be based on the wage of the worker at the time of injury.

(B) The benefits of a worker who incurs an occupational disease shall be based on the wage of the worker at the time there is medical verification that the worker is unable to work because of the disability caused by the occupational disease. If the worker is not working at the time that there is medical verification that the worker is unable to work because of the disability caused by the occupational disease, the benefits shall be based on the wage of the worker at the worker's last regular employment.

(c) As used in this subsection, "regularly employed" means actual employment or availability for such employment. For workers not regularly employed and for workers with no remuneration or whose remuneration is not based solely upon daily or weekly wages, the director, by rule, may prescribe methods for establishing the worker's weekly wage.

(3) No disability payment is recoverable for temporary total disability suffered during the first three calendar days after the worker leaves work as a result of the compensable injury unless the total disability continues for a period of 14 days or the worker is an inpatient in a hospital. If the worker leaves work the day of the injury, that day shall be considered the first day of the three-day period.

SECTION 8. This Act takes effect January 1, 1988.

CHAPTER 714

AN ACT HB 2293

Relating to courts; creating new provisions; amending ORS 46.060, 46.075, 46.084 and 46.461 and ORCP 21 G.; and repealing ORS 46.063 and 46.070.

Be It Enacted by the People of the State of Oregon:

SECTION 1. Section 2 of this Act is added to and made a part of ORS 46.060 to 46.080.

SECTION 2. (1) When it appears to any party that a civil action commenced in a district court involves any claim that is not within the jurisdiction of the district court but is within the jurisdiction of the circuit court, that party shall file a motion requesting transfer and the district court shall not dismiss the action but shall order transfer of the entire action to the circuit court. If no motion is made by a party, the court shall transfer the case on its own motion if the court is aware that a claim is outside the jurisdiction of the court.

(2) In any civil action commenced in a district court a defendant may plead a counterclaim or cross-claim in excess of the jurisdiction of the court. If a defendant pleads a counterclaim or cross-claim in excess of the jurisdiction of the district court, the court shall not dismiss the action but shall, on motion of a party or if no motion is made by a party, on its own motion, order transfer of the entire action to the circuit court. In any civil action commenced in a district court wherein the amount claimed by the plaintiff is not in excess of the jurisdiction of the court and the amount claimed by a defendant by way of counterclaim or cross-claim is not in excess of the jurisdiction of the court, the court shall have jurisdiction of the action notwithstanding that the combined amount of the claim, counterclaim and cross-claim exceeds $10,000.

(3) A motion to transfer made by a party or an order to transfer made by a district court on its own motion under this section shall be made not less than 14 days before the date set for trial of the action in the court. If no party has made a motion to transfer and the court is otherwise unaware that a claim is outside the jurisdiction of the court and as a result the court has failed to order a transfer of the case, all objections that jurisdiction is not in the district court but is in the circuit court shall be considered waived, and a judgment of the district court in the action shall not be void or voidable or subject to direct or collateral attack on the ground that jurisdiction was not in the district court but was in the circuit court. However, nothing in this section shall be construed to allow a party to agree to waive the jurisdictional limits of the court where the party is aware more than 14 days in advance of the date set for trial of the action that a claim is not within the jurisdiction of the court.

(4) An order of a district court to transfer under this section may be reviewed on appeal of a judgment of the circuit court in the action by any party who did not make or agree to the motion to transfer. An order of a district court denying a motion of a party to transfer under this section may be reviewed on appeal of a judgment of the district court in the action by the party making the motion. No error in the ruling or order of district court on a motion to transfer under this section shall cause reversal of a judgment unless the error substantially affects the rights of a party and requires a new trial. If an appellate court reverses a judgment of a district or circuit court because of error by a district court in the ruling or order on a motion to transfer under this section, the appellate court shall direct that the district or circuit court transfer the action to the proper court.

(5) This section does not apply to any proceedings under ORS chapter 107 or 109 or to probate, conservatorship, guardianship, change of name or juvenile proceedings.

SECTION 3. ORS 46.075 is amended to read:

46.075. (1) [The district court shall order the transfer to the circuit court of every cause authorized by this chapter to be so transferred.] Within 10 days [therefrom] after a district court orders transfer of an action to the circuit court under section 2 of this 1987 Act the clerk of the district court shall file with the clerk of the circuit court a transcript of the [cause] action including all the material entries in the [register] records of the district court and all of the original papers relating to the [case] action. Thereupon the district court shall proceed no further with the [cause] action. The [case] action shall be considered transferred to the circuit court which shall then have jurisdiction to try and determine the [cause] action.

(2) The responding party shall have 10 days after the final date allowed for the transcript and original papers to be filed in the circuit court within which to plead further. If the district court clerk fails to file the transcript and original papers within the time specified, [a] the presiding judge of the circuit court may order that clerk to do so within a specified time.

(3) Except as provided in ORS 46.461, when the district court orders the transfer of an action to the circuit court [of a cause]:

(a) The plaintiff, in addition to the fee paid to the district court clerk as required by ORS 46.221 (1)(a), shall pay to the circuit court clerk an amount equal to the difference between that fee and the filing fee required of a plaintiff by ORS 21.110.

(b) The defendant, in addition to the fee paid to the district court clerk as required by ORS 46.221 (1)(b), shall pay to the circuit court clerk an amount equal to the difference between that fee and the filing fee required of a defendant by ORS 21.110.

(c) The party pleading an original claim, counterclaim or cross-claim in excess of the jurisdiction of the district court shall pay to the district court clerk the transfer fee required by ORS 46.221 (1)(k).

(4) If the moving party prevails in the circuit court, the required transfer fee paid by that party may be taxed as costs and disbursements.

SECTION 4. (1) When it appears to any party that a civil action commenced in a circuit court involves any claim that is not within the jurisdiction of the circuit court but is within the jurisdiction of the district court, that party shall file a motion requesting transfer and the circuit court shall not dismiss the action but shall order transfer of the entire action to the district court. If no motion is made by a party, the court shall transfer the case on its own motion if the court is aware that a claim is outside the jurisdiction of the court.

(2) In any civil action commenced in a circuit court wherein the amount claimed by the plaintiff is in excess of $10,000 and the amount claimed by a defendant by way of counterclaim or cross-claim is not in excess of $10,000, the court shall retain jurisdiction of the action notwithstanding that the amount of the counterclaim or cross-claim does not exceed $10,000.

(3) A motion to transfer made by a party or an order to transfer made by a circuit court on its own motion under this section shall be made not less than 14 days before the date set for trial of the action in the court. All objections that jurisdiction is not in the circuit court but is in the district court shall be considered waived, and a judgment of the circuit court in the action shall not be void or voidable or subject to direct or collateral attack on the ground that jurisdiction was not in the circuit court but was in the district court. However, nothing in this section shall be construed to allow a party to agree to waive the jurisdictional limits of the court where the party is aware more than 14 days in advance of the date set for trial of the action that a claim is not within the jurisdiction of the court.

(4) An order of a circuit court to transfer under this section may be reviewed on appeal of a judgment of the district court in the action by any party who did not make or agree to the motion to transfer. An order of a circuit court denying a motion of a party to transfer under this section may be reviewed on appeal of a judgment of the circuit court in the action by the party making the motion. No error in the ruling or order of a circuit court on a motion to transfer under this section shall cause reversal of a judgment unless the error substantially affects the rights of a party and requires a new trial. If an appellate court reverses a judgment of a circuit or district court because of error by a circuit court in the ruling or order on a motion to transfer under this section, the appellate court shall direct that the circuit or district court transfer the action to the proper court.

SECTION 5. (1) Within 10 days after a circuit court orders transfer of an action to the district court under section 4 of this Act the clerk of the circuit court shall file with the clerk of the district court a transcript of the action including all the material entries in the records of the circuit court and all of the original papers relating to the action. Thereupon the circuit court shall proceed no further with the action. The action shall be considered transferred to the district court which shall then have jurisdiction to try and determine the action.

(2) The responding party shall have 10 days after the final date allowed for the transcript and original papers to be filed in the district court within which to plead further. If the circuit court clerk fails to file the transcript and original papers within the time specified, the presiding judge of the district court may order that clerk do so within a specified time.

SECTION 6. ORCP 21 G. is amended to read:

G. Waiver or preservation of certain defenses.

G.(1) A defense of lack of jurisdiction over the person, that there is another action pending between the same parties for the same cause, insufficiency of summons or process, or insufficiency of service of summons or process, is waived under either of the following circumstances: (a) if the defense is omitted from a motion in the circumstances described in section F. of this rule, or (b) if the defense is neither made by motion under this rule nor included in a responsive pleading. The objection or defense, if made at trial, shall be disposed of as provided in Rule 23 B. in light of any evidence that may have been received.

G.(4) Except as provided in sections 2 and 4 of this 1987 Act, if it appears by motion of the parties or otherwise that the court lacks jurisdiction over the subje matter, the court shall dismiss the action.

Re: Procedures on Default

Gentlemen:

I am writing at the request of the Oregon State Bar Procedure and Practice Committee.

For the past three years, we have attempted to resolve what we consider to be a substantial procedural defect in the manner in which Oregon cases are brought to default of judgment.

The present procedure, under Oregon rules, requires notice prior to taking a judgment against a party. The procedures as they are, technically required in Oregon courts do not require notice prior to taking order of default.

The Oregon State Bar Procedure and Practice Committee wishes to see Oregon adopt rules which will require giving notice of intention to take default when a party is aware that an attorney represents the party against whom the default is being taken.

The reasons which we believe speak for this change, are that there is a likelihood that either the lawyer, the PLF or the innocent client may suffer financial damages due to efforts to set aside defaults when the problem occurred through some misunderstanding about an extension of time to answer.

We have tried to suggest changes in rules and procedures, and have been rebuffed. Our specific suggestions have been either misunderstood or disregarded.

Our motive is to avoid costly court battles over whether or not default orders should be set aside when the parties had retained attorneys and intended to answer complaints.

As this next year of labor on your committees begins, will you please give attention to our concern.

Feel free to consult the Procedure and Practice Committee for their thoughts on this matter and to obtain our proposed revisions.

My term on the committee expires October 1, 1987 and therefore I suggest that you communicate with last year's secretary Janice M. Stewart, McEwen, Gisvold, et al., 1408 Standard Plaza, 1100 SW Sixth Avenue, Portland, OR 97204.

Dear Mr. Kilpatrick:

I am writing concerning ORCP 68 A(2) with regard to the expenses of taking depositions. Under the former ORCP 68 A(2) "costs and disbursements" expressly included "the necessary expenses of taking depositions". That language has been deleted under the current version of ORCP 68 A(2) and the following language has been added:

> "The expenses of taking depositions shall not be allowed, even though the depositions are used at trial, except as otherwise provided by rule or statute."

The current comments to ORCP provide in relevant part:

> "The Council did not change the items recoverable as disbursements. Discovery deposition cost remain nonrecoverable because the rule refers to 'necessary'.deposition cost."

Since there is no reference in the current ORCP 68 A(2) to "necessary" deposition costs, the current comment to ORCP 68 A(2) that references to "necessary" deposition costs seems puzzling to me.

I would appreciate whatever clarification you might offer. Thank you in advance for your consideration.

Yours truly,

John H. Heald

EXPLANATION OF NEED FOR CHIEF JUSTICE ORDER

Section 12a of Chapter 774, 1987 Oregon Laws, is effective on September 27, 1987. It amends ORCP 18 to prohibit the pleading of an amount for noneconomic damages in a civil action. A number of the courts in this state have adopted a mandatory arbitration program under ORS 33.350 to 33.400.

The prohibition against pleading noneconomic damages will not cause problems concerning mandatory arbitration in district courts because chapter 125, Oregon Laws 1987, makes the mandatory arbitration limit the same as the jurisdictional limit in district court. Nor does it create problems concerning trial court jurisdiction because chapter 714, Oregon Laws 1987, provides a transfer procedure that will solve this problem. It does raise questions, however, about mandatory arbitration in circuit courts. Without knowing the amount of noneconomic damages that will be sought, how are circuit courts to know whether the amount sought will be within the limit [established by ORS 33.360(1)(a) as amended by section 1, chapter 116, Oregon Laws 1987] that subjects the case to mandatory arbitration? This order addresses that problem.

In August, I sent a memorandum discussing the solution established by this rule to more than 100 people (including judges, court administrators, court clerks, various members and committees of the Oregon Bar and various associations of lawyers) to solicit comment and possible alternative suggestions. After considering the comments and suggested alternatives, the solution established by this order appeared to be the most workable. This solution may not be perfect, but for the time being courts and attorneys will follow the procedure set out in this order.

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF OREGON

In the Matter of Pleadings and Assignment of Cases to Mandatory Arbitration Programs	)	No. 87-47
	)	ORDER ADOPTING PROCEDURES FOR ASSIGNING CASES TO MANDATORY ARBITRATION

By virtue of the authority vested in me as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court by ORS 1.002(1)(a), circuit courts with a mandatory arbitration program shall comply with the following procedure:

1. All civil actions filed in circuit court that appear on the face of the pleadings (without consideration of noneconomic damages, ORCP 18B) to be subject to mandatory arbitration under ORS 33.360(1) will be assigned to arbitration unless one of the following occurs:

   a. The title of a pleading in the case (including a claim, counterclaim, cross claim or third party claim) contains the words "CLAIM NOT SUBJECT TO MANDATORY ARBITRATION." When a party places this language in the title of the pleading, the party gives notice to the court and other parties that the party will seek an amount in excess of the mandatory arbitration limit and has not pleaded the amount because of ORCP 18B. This language shall not be in the title of a pleading for any other purpose. A party's signature on pleadings containing such language constitutes the party's certificate of such notice under ORCP 17.

   b. Any party files a notice, prior to referral to arbitration, that the case is not subject to mandatory arbitration. The notice must state grounds sufficient, under ORS 33.360, to remove the case from mandatory arbitration.

   c. The court orders the case removed from mandatory arbitration under ORS 33.360(2).

2. Notice under either part 1.a. or 1.b. of this order does not prevent any party from asserting by appropriate motion, that the case is subject to mandatory arbitration.

3. A party who gives notice under part 1.a. or 1.b. of this order shall be sanctioned under UTCR 1.090(2) or ORCP 17 if the court determines that there was not good ground to support the notice or that the notice was given only for the purpose of avoiding mandatory arbitration.

4. For purposes of identification, this order may be referred to as UTCR 2.070.

5. This order is effective on September 27, 1987.

Dated this 21st day of September, 1987.

Re: ORCP 69

Dear Chief Justice Peterson:

I have received your letter dated September 29, 1987, and have talked to Doug Haldane. Doug indicates that the council on Court Procedure has grappled with the problems and issues raised by Dwayne Pinkerton in his letter of September 24, 1987, to you. As I understand it, the council decided that placing a limit on the notice prior to the entry of a default order may create Equal Protection Doctrine problems, and, therefore, decided to rely upon the disciplinary rules which provide that local custom and practice regarding the need to provide notice to opposing counsel should govern. Doug mentioned that this issue has arisen at least once in Lane County and that a finding had been made that the local custom and practice of its bar contemplated a kind of notice prior to taking a default order.

We then discussed the possibility that the Uniform Trial Court Rules might serve a function in providing notice about what is the custom and practice on a court by court basis. I indicated that perhaps the Uniform Trial Court Rule would require each court to adopt a supplementary rule describing their local custom and practice. Rule making itself would provide a useful function to the local bar and bench in getting them to decide what is their local custom and what their practice should be. Moreover, such a supplementary rule would provide notice to out-of-county attorneys as to what the practice was in every specific county.

Doug and I appear to agree that this approach by the Uniform Trial Court Rules committee would complement the work of the council on ORCP 69.

It would be my recommendation, however, that you not wait until the next round of Uniform Trial Court Rules to exact from the local courts these kinds of supplementary rules, but initiate the process in short order. By requiring each court to submit its supplementary rule say by the end of November, this would give the Judicial Department time to include those supplementary rules in the upcoming set of amended supplementary rules.

As always, I am more than pleased to discuss this matter with you and Doug.

Very truly yours,

CHURCHILL, LEONARD,

The defenses referred to in this subsection shall not be raised by amendment.

SECTION 2. ORCP 39, as amended by promulgation on December 13, 1986, by the Council on Court Procedures, is amended to read:

RULE 39

DEPOSITIONS UPON ORAL EXAMINATION

A. When deposition may be taken. After the service of summons or the appearance of the defendant in any action, or in a special proceeding at any time after a question of fact has arisen, any party may take the testimony of any person, including a party, by deposition upon oral examination. Leave of court, with or without notice, must be obtained only if the plaintiff seeks to take a deposition prior to the expiration of the period of time specified in Rule 7 to appear and answer after service of summons on any defendant, except that leave is not required (1) if a defendant has served a notice of taking deposition or otherwise sought discovery, or (2) a special notice is given as provided in subsection C.(2) of this Rule. The attendance of a witness may be compelled by subpoena as provided in Rule 55.

B. Order for deposition or production of prisoner. The deposition of a person confined in a prison or jail may only be taken by leave of court. The deposition shall be taken on such terms as the court prescribes, and the court may order that the deposition be taken at the place of confinement or, when the prisoner is confined in this state, may order temporary removal and production of the prisoner for purposes of the deposition.

C. Notice of examination.

C.(1) General requirements. A party desiring to take the deposition of any person upon oral examination shall give reasonable notice in writing to every other party to the action. The notice shall state the time and place for taking the deposition and the name and address of each person to be examined, if known, and, if the name is not known, a general description sufficient to identify such person or the particular class or group to which such person belongs. If a subpoena duces tecum is to be served on the person to be examined, the designation of the materials to be produced as set forth in the subpoena shall be attached to or included in the notice.

C.(2) Special notice. Leave of court is not required for the taking of a deposition by plaintiff if the notice (a) states that the person to be examined is about to go out of the state, or is bound on a voyage to sea, and will be unavailable for examination unless the deposition is taken before the expiration of the period of time specified in Rule 7 to appear and answer after service of summons on any defendant, and (b) sets forth facts to support the statement. The plaintiff's attorney shall sign the notice, and such signature constitutes a certification by the attorney that to the best of such attorney's knowledge, information, and belief the statement and supporting facts are true.

If a party shows that when served with notice under this subsection, the party was unable through the exercise of diligence to obtain counsel to represent such party at the taking of the deposition, the deposition may not be used against such party.

C.(3) Shorter or longer time. The court may for cause shown enlarge or shorten the time for taking the deposition.

C.(4) Non-stenographic recording. The notice of deposition required under subsection (1) of this section may provide that the testimony be recorded by other than stenographic means, in which event the notice shall designate the manner of recording and preserving the deposition. A court may require that the deposition be taken by stenographic means if necessary to assure that the recording be accurate.

C.(5) Production of documents and things. The notice to a party deponent may be accompanied by a request made in compliance with Rule 43 for the production of documents and tangible things at the taking of the deposition. The procedure of Rule 43 shall apply to the request.

C.(6) Deposition of organization. A party may in the notice and in a subpoena name as the deponent a public or private corporation or a partnership or association or governmental agency and describe with reasonable particularity the matters on which examination is requested. In that event, the organization so named shall designate one or more officers, directors, managing agents, or other persons who consent to testify on its behalf, and shall set forth, for each person designated, the matters on which such person will testify. A subpoena shall advise a non-party organization of its duty to make such a designation. The persons so designated shall testify as to matters known or reasonably available to the organization. This subsection does not preclude taking a deposition by any other procedure authorized in these rules.

C.(7) Deposition by telephone. The court may upon motion order that testimony at a deposition be taken by telephone, in which event the order shall designate the conditions of taking testimony, the manner of recording the deposition, and may include other provisions to assure that the recorded testimony will be accurate and trustworthy.

D. Examination and cross-examination; record of examination; oath; objections. Examination and cross-examination of witnesses may proceed as permitted at the trial. The person described in Rule 38 shall put the witness on oath. The testimony of the witness shall be recorded either stenographically or as provided in subsection C.(4) of this rule. If testimony is recorded pursuant to subsection C.(4) of this rule, the party taking the deposition shall retain the original recording without alteration, unless the recording is filed with the court pursuant to subsection G.(2) of this rule, until the final disposition of the action. If requested by one of the parties, the testimony shall be transcribed upon the payment of the reasonable charges therefor. All objections made at the time of the examination to the qualifications of the person taking the deposition, or to the manner of taking it, or to the evidence presented, or to the conduct of any party, and any other objection to the proceedings, shall be noted upon the [transcription or recording] record. Evidence objected to shall be taken subject to the objections. In lieu of participating in the oral examination, parties may serve written questions on the party taking the deposition who shall propound them to the witness and see that the answers thereto are recorded verbatim.

E. Motion to terminate or limit examination. At any time during the taking of a deposition, on motion of any party or of the deponent and upon a showing that the examination is being conducted or hindered in bad faith or in such manner as unreasonably to annoy, embarrass, or oppress the deponent or any party, the court in which the action is pending or the court in the county where the deposition is being taken shall rule on any question presented by the motion and may order the officer conducting the examination to cease forthwith from taking the deposition, or may limit the scope and manner of the taking of the deposition as provided in Rule 36 C. If the order terminates the examination, it shall be resumed thereafter only upon the order of the court in which the action is pending. Upon demand of the objecting party or deponent, the taking of the deposition shall be suspended for the time necessary to make a motion for an order. The provisions of Rule 46 A.(4) apply to the award of expenses incurred in relation to the motion.

F. Submission to witness; changes; statement.

F.(1) Necessity of submission to witness for examination. When the testimony is taken by stenographic means, or is recorded by other than stenographic means as provided in subsection C.(4) of this rule, and if any party or the witness so requests at the time the deposition is taken, the recording or transcription shall be submitted to the witness for examination, changes, if any, and statement of correctness. With leave of court such request may be made by a party or witness at any time before trial.

F.(2) Procedure after examination. Any changes which the witness desires to make shall be entered upon the transcription or stated in a writing to accompany the recording by the party taking the deposition, together with a statement of the reasons given by the witness for making them. Notice of such changes and reasons shall promptly be served upon all parties by the party taking the deposition. The witness shall then state in writing that the transcription or recording is correct subject to the changes, if any, made by the witness, unless the parties waive the statement or the witness is physically unable to make such statement or cannot be found. If the statement is not made by the witness within 30 days, or within a lesser time upon court order, after the deposition is submitted to the witness, the party taking the deposition shall state on the transcription or in a writing to accompany the recording the fact of waiver, or the physical incapacity or absence of the witness, or the fact of refusal of the witness to make the statement, together with the reasons, if any, given therefor; and the deposition may then be used as fully as though the statement had been made unless, on a motion to suppress under Rule 41 D., the court finds that the reasons given for the refusal to make the statement require rejection of the deposition in whole or in part.

F.(3) No request for examination. If no examination by the witness is requested, no statement by the witness as to the correctness of the transcription or recording is required.

G. Certification; filing; exhibits; copies.

G.(1) Certification. When a deposition is stenographically taken, the stenographic reporter shall certify, under oath, on the transcript that the witness was sworn in the reporter's presence and that the transcript is a true record of the testimony given by the witness. When a deposition is recorded by other than stenographic means as provided in subsection C.(4) of this rule, and thereafter transcribed, the person transcribing it shall certify, under oath, on the transcript that such person heard the witness sworn on the recording and that the transcript is a correct transcription of the recording. When a recording or a non-stenographic deposition or a transcription of such recording or non-stenographic deposition is to be used at any proceeding in the action or is filed with the court, the party taking the deposition, or such party's attorney, shall certify under oath that the recording, either filed or furnished to the person making the transcription, is a true, complete, and accurate recording of the deposition of the witness and that the recording has not been altered.

G.(2) Filing. If requested by any party, the transcript or the recording of the deposition shall be filed with the court where the action is pending. When a deposition is stenographically taken, the stenographic reporter or, in the case of a deposition taken pursuant to subsection C.(4) of this rule, the party taking the deposition shall enclose it in a sealed envelope, directed to the clerk of the court or the justice of the peace before whom the action is pending or such other person as may by writing be agreed upon, and deliver or forward it accordingly by mail or other usual channel of conveyance. If a recording of a deposition has been filed with the court, it may be transcribed upon request of any party under such terms and conditions as the court may direct.

G.(3) Exhibits. Documents and things produced for inspection during the examination of the witness shall, upon the request of a party, be marked for identification and annexed to and returned with the deposition, and may be inspected and copied by any party. Whenever the person producing materials desires to retain the originals, such person may substitute copies of the originals, or afford each party an opportunity to make copies thereof. In the event the original materials are retained by the person producing them, they shall be marked for identification and the person producing them shall afford each party the subsequent opportunity to compare any copy with the original. The person producing the materials shall also be required to retain the original materials for subsequent use in any proceeding in the same action. Any party may move for an order that the original be annexed to and returned with the deposition to the court, pending final disposition of the case.

G.(4) Copies. Upon payment of reasonable charges therefor, the stenographic reporter or, in the case of a deposition taken pursuant to subsection C.(4) of this rule, the party taking the deposition shall furnish a copy of the deposition to any party or to the deponent.

H. Payment of expenses upon failure to appear.

H.(1) Failure of party to attend. If the party giving the notice of the taking of the deposition fails to attend and proceed therewith and another party attends in person or by attorney pursuant to the notice, the court in which the action is pending may order the party giving the notice to pay to such other party the amount of the reasonable expenses incurred by such other party and the attorney for such other party in so attending, including reasonable attorney's fees.

H.(2) Failure of witness to attend. If the party giving the notice of the taking of a deposition of a witness fails to serve a subpoena upon the witness and the witness because of such failure does not attend, and if another party attends in person or by attorney because the attending party expects the deposition of that witness to be taken, the court may order the party giving the notice to pay to such other party the amount of the reasonable expenses incurred by such other party and the attorney for such other party in so attending, including reasonable attorney's fees.

I. Perpetuation of testimony after commencement of action.

I.(1) After commencement of any action, any party wishing to perpetuate the testimony of a witness for the purpose of trial or hearing may do so by serving a perpetuation deposition notice.

I.(2) The notice is subject to subsections C.(1)[-] through (7) of this rule and shall additionally state:

I.(2)(a) A brief description of the subject areas of testimony of the witness; and

I.(2)(b) The manner of recording the deposition.

I.(3) Prior to the time set for the deposition, any other party may object to the perpetuation deposition. Such objection shall be governed by the standards of Rule 36 C. At any hearing on such an objection, the burden shall be on the party seeking perpetuation to show that: (a) the witness may be unavailable as defined in ORS [40.465 (1) for the trial or hearing, or that] 40.465 (1)(d) or (e) or ORS 45.250 (2)(a) through (d); or (b) it would be an undue hardship on the witness to appear at the trial or hearing; or (c) other good cause exists for allowing the perpetuation. If no objection is filed, or if perpetuation is allowed, the testimony taken shall be admissible at any subsequent trial or hearing in the [case] action, subject to the Oregon [Rules of] Evidence Code.

I.(4) Any perpetuation deposition shall be taken not less than seven days before the trial or hearing on not less than [fourteen] 14 days' notice, unless [good cause is shown] the court in which the action is pending allows a shorter period upon a showing of good cause.

I.(5) To the extent that a discovery deposition is allowed by law, any party [other than the one giving notice] may conduct a discovery deposition of the witness prior to the perpetuation deposition.

I.(6) The perpetuation examination shall proceed as set forth in subsection D. [herein] of this rule. All objections to any testimony or evidence taken at the deposition shall be made at the time and noted upon the [transcription or recording] record. The court before which the testimony is offered shall rule on any objections before the testimony is offered. Any objections not made at the deposition shall be deemed waived.

SECTION 3. ORS 40.450 is amended to read:

(2) The sheriff shall, within five days after the receipt of the warrant, record with the clerk of the county a copy thereof, and thereupon the clerk shall enter in the County Clerk Lien Record the name of the taxpayer mentioned in the warrant, and the amount of the tax or portion thereof and penalties for which the warrant is issued and the date when such copy is recorded. Thereupon the amount of the warrant so recorded shall become a lien upon the title to and interest in property of the taxpayer against whom it is issued in the same manner as a judgment duly [docketed] recorded. The sheriff thereupon shall proceed upon the same in all respects, with like effect and in the same manner prescribed by law in respect to executions issued against property upon judgment of a court of record, and shall be entitled to the same fees for services in executing the warrant, to be added to and collected as a part of the warrant liability.

(3) In the discretion of the department a warrant of like terms, force and effect may be issued and directed to any agent authorized to collect taxes, and in the execution thereof the agent shall have all the powers conferred by law upon sheriffs, but is entitled to no fee or compensation in excess of actual expenses paid in the performance of such duty.

(4) If a warrant is returned not satisfied in full, the department shall have the same remedies to enforce the claim for taxes against the taxpayer as if the people of the state had recovered judgment against the taxpayer for the amount of the tax, and shall balance the assessment record of the taxpayer by transferring the unpaid deficiency to the taxpayer's delinquent record.
